1 INTRODUCTION

This document provides the list of messages that have been deprecated with this release. They have been depreciated because their functionality can either be found within the defined messages or no requirement has been expressed for their use.

The deprecated messages have been listed here for information and they form an integral part of the version 4 release. However, they will be completely withdrawn from use in one of the forthcoming releases of Edig@s.

The deprecated message definitions are not included in this document, but they may be found in the version 3.2 release of the Edig@s messages.
